Where do we go for help at UAF?

UNIVERSITY OF ALASKA FAIRBANKS

Starting Point

Faculty, Department Chair or Dean:

If you are a student with educational issues, you are encouraged to talk with the course instructor/faculty member, the Department Chair or the Dean to seek resolution.

Office of Admissions and the Registrar:

For access to or information about your academic record, or if you believe there has been a violation of the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), please contact the Office of Admissions and the Registrar.

E-mail: registrar@uaf.edu

Judicial Services:

If you are a student experiencing academic issues or seek review of final course grades, you must first attempt to resolve the issue informally with the instructor of the course. If the course instructor is unavailable and/or you believe the grading was arbitrary and capricious, the next step would be to address the issue or issues with the appropriate department chair. If you are dissatisfied with the resolution, you may file a grade appeal with the department offering the course and they will process your grievance. The Dean of Students Office acts as a facilitator for the grade appeal committee to ensure the process is consistent.

We provide twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week service to the campus community.

Any 911 call generated, either through cell phones, regular LAN phone lines, or by the emergency call boxes located throughout the UAF campus, will be directed to the University's dispatching center where police officers, firefighters and or medics will respond.

Women's Center:

The UAF Women's Center provides resources and support as women empower themselves and one another in their pursuit of individual and collective goals. The Center strives to create an atmosphere in which all people are free to affirm and celebrate their differences, including but not limited to differences of gender, race, sexual orientation, class, age, religion, physical and mental ability.
